

New Editorial Team for SACS after 16 Years

Bogdan AMAN¹, Gabriel CIOBANU²

Dear readers of Scientific Annals of Computer Science (SACS),

It is our great pleasure to inform you that SACS has from July 2022 a new editorial team. This team will replace the team lead by Gabriel Ciobanu as Editor-in-chief that took over SACS in 2006; Gabriel Ciobanu was helped in his efforts by Sorin Iftene as Assistant Editor from 2006, while Bogdan Aman replaced Sorin Iftene as Assistant Editor in 2018. Without their assiduous work, SACS could not attain the continuity and the quality that it has.

The journal is based now on the voluntary work of few scientists (mainly two) giving their time to maintain a decent scientific level for its content. As a consequence of this voluntary work, SACS is a diamond open access journal without subscription; all articles are freely available online, offering an increased visibility and usage of their results. We may say that the journal has a decent reputation, being included in the Web of Science (ESCI), being indexed by SCOPUS, SCImago and DBLP (among others). In order to improve the quality and visibility of this journal, to expand its global influence and provide a broader academic platform for scholars, the editorial board is refreshed starting with this volume:

Editor in Chief

We are fully convinced that the new team will continue with fresh ideas and new energy for the sake of SACS.

Finally, we would like to sincerely thank all our retiring members of the Editorial Board. They have all contributed in different ways to the development of the journal. Some have been members for many, many years and have given generously of their time, energy and expertise. To all of them, we are extremely grateful. We also thank our reviewers who continue to be the backbone of our journal.
